

"Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. "Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. "But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or to detract. "The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. "It is for us living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us,—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they here gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain, that this nation under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that the government of the people, by the people and for the people, shall not perish from the earth—"—from Lincoln's Gettysburg address, 1863.

PRESIDENT LEADS NATION IN HERO TRIBUTE

GOVERNOR SMITH HOLDS DESTINY OF DEMOCRATIC PARTY

SIGNATURE OR VETO OF WET BILL WILL SWING RACE.

WILSON EXAMPLE Signature Expected, With Politics As Deciding Factor in Issue.

By DAVID LAWRENCE, Copyright, 1923, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Albany, N. Y.—Governor Al Smith will do more on Friday next to shape the destiny of the democratic party in the nation and after the whole aspect of the presidential contest of 1924 than will any single democrat or group of democrats in the year that must elapse before the national conventions are held.

The issue before the New York state governor today is not whether the Mul-lan-Gage law enforces prohibition by making one-half of one per cent of alcohol the legal definition of what the eighteenth amendment of the federal constitution meant by the word "intoxicating." Nor is the issue whether the Empire state is deprived of a statute under which arrests and prosecutions can be made concurrently with the federal law.

All this, of course, is the subject of the hearing at which the pro and con of the state law will be argued, together with lots of contention about the obligation of the New York state "to stay in the union," as President Harding in effect expressed him-

URGES ARMED INTERVENTION BY POWERS

Tientsin.—Armed intervention by the foreign powers to put down the bandits in China is favored by Major Roland W. Pinger, U. S. A., one of the 14 foreigners held by outlaws on Paozuku mountain. He expressed this opinion in a letter to the Associated Press received here today.

"We captives," wrote Major Pinger, "have learned the personality of the bandits by now and so we no longer dread the errors of the first and second nights."

"Looking at things impersonally, I favor armed intervention. Civilize them with Kraggs is my motto, and I don't believe they will have to be so civilized to make good little laundrymen of the rest."

POLICE CHIEF IS MURDERED

Toronto.—Sergeant John Urhart of the provincial police, was shot to death at North Bay on the 28th, after having been a man ship into the building during the night.

After killing Urhart on the 28th, the man for whom the elder Rogers' home was about to be searched, broke through the posse and escaped.

Police are convinced he was the desperado whom they have hunted through the wilderness since two weeks ago, when, after flashing a cardboard gun, he escaped from a prisoner's docket in court, later killing one constable and injuring another.

12 GUILTY OF AUTO THEFTS

Indianapolis.—Twelve men from Louisville, Ky., and several small cities of southern Indiana were found guilty by a jury in U. S. district court of conspiring to violate the federal motor vehicle act. The men were alleged to have operated an automobile theft ring in Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota and other states.

Bandits Hurl 80 to Death Over Cliff

Shanghai.—Shooting of food in the bandit stronghold at Paozuku caused the brigands to throw 80 Chinese prisoners to death from one of the mountain cliffs, according to information received from Father William Leifers, aged German priest, who has made several trips to the outlaw headquarters.

Father Leifers declared the prisoners' feet were bound, and each was labeled with his name and identification before being hurled to death. A woman prisoner was thrown over with her child in her arms.

Later the bandits notified the families of the massacred captives of their deaths and relatives were permitted to remove the bodies.

NEW DISCORD RIFE OVER LA FOLLETTE INCOME TAX BILL

PROGRESSIVE MACHINE COGS STILL FAIL TO MESH.

BLAINE HOSTILE? Friends Would Revive Measure of Executive, Report at Capitol.

Madison.—The finance committee tax bill after success had been predicted for it by progressive republicans, is now said by senators to be facing the same obstacles and dangers that have resulted in the side-tracking of the other three revenue measures introduced into the legislature.

There is reported from sources close to the governor, the belief that Governor Blaine is not any too friendly to the bill. He wrote a letter to the tax commission asking upon what basis the rates in the measure were arrived at according to commission members. The commission reply has not been published but is understood to point out that the measure will produce the revenue it is designed to produce.

Several Opposed.—The senators who declared opposition to the compromise measure, after the progressive republican conference that decided to side-track the Blaine bill, but who finally agreed to back the new plan are again openly expressing opposition to the finance committee bill and expressing the belief that the governor will not revive the measure.

Robert M. La Follette, Jr., chairman of the Republican state central committee, is still in Madison and held another conference with the governor yesterday afternoon, during which the tax question was discussed. The result of the conference was not announced.

While the progressive are openly expressing their differences, Senator Anton Kuekuk and conservative republicans are preparing a bill that will be less drastic than those proposed by the other authors.

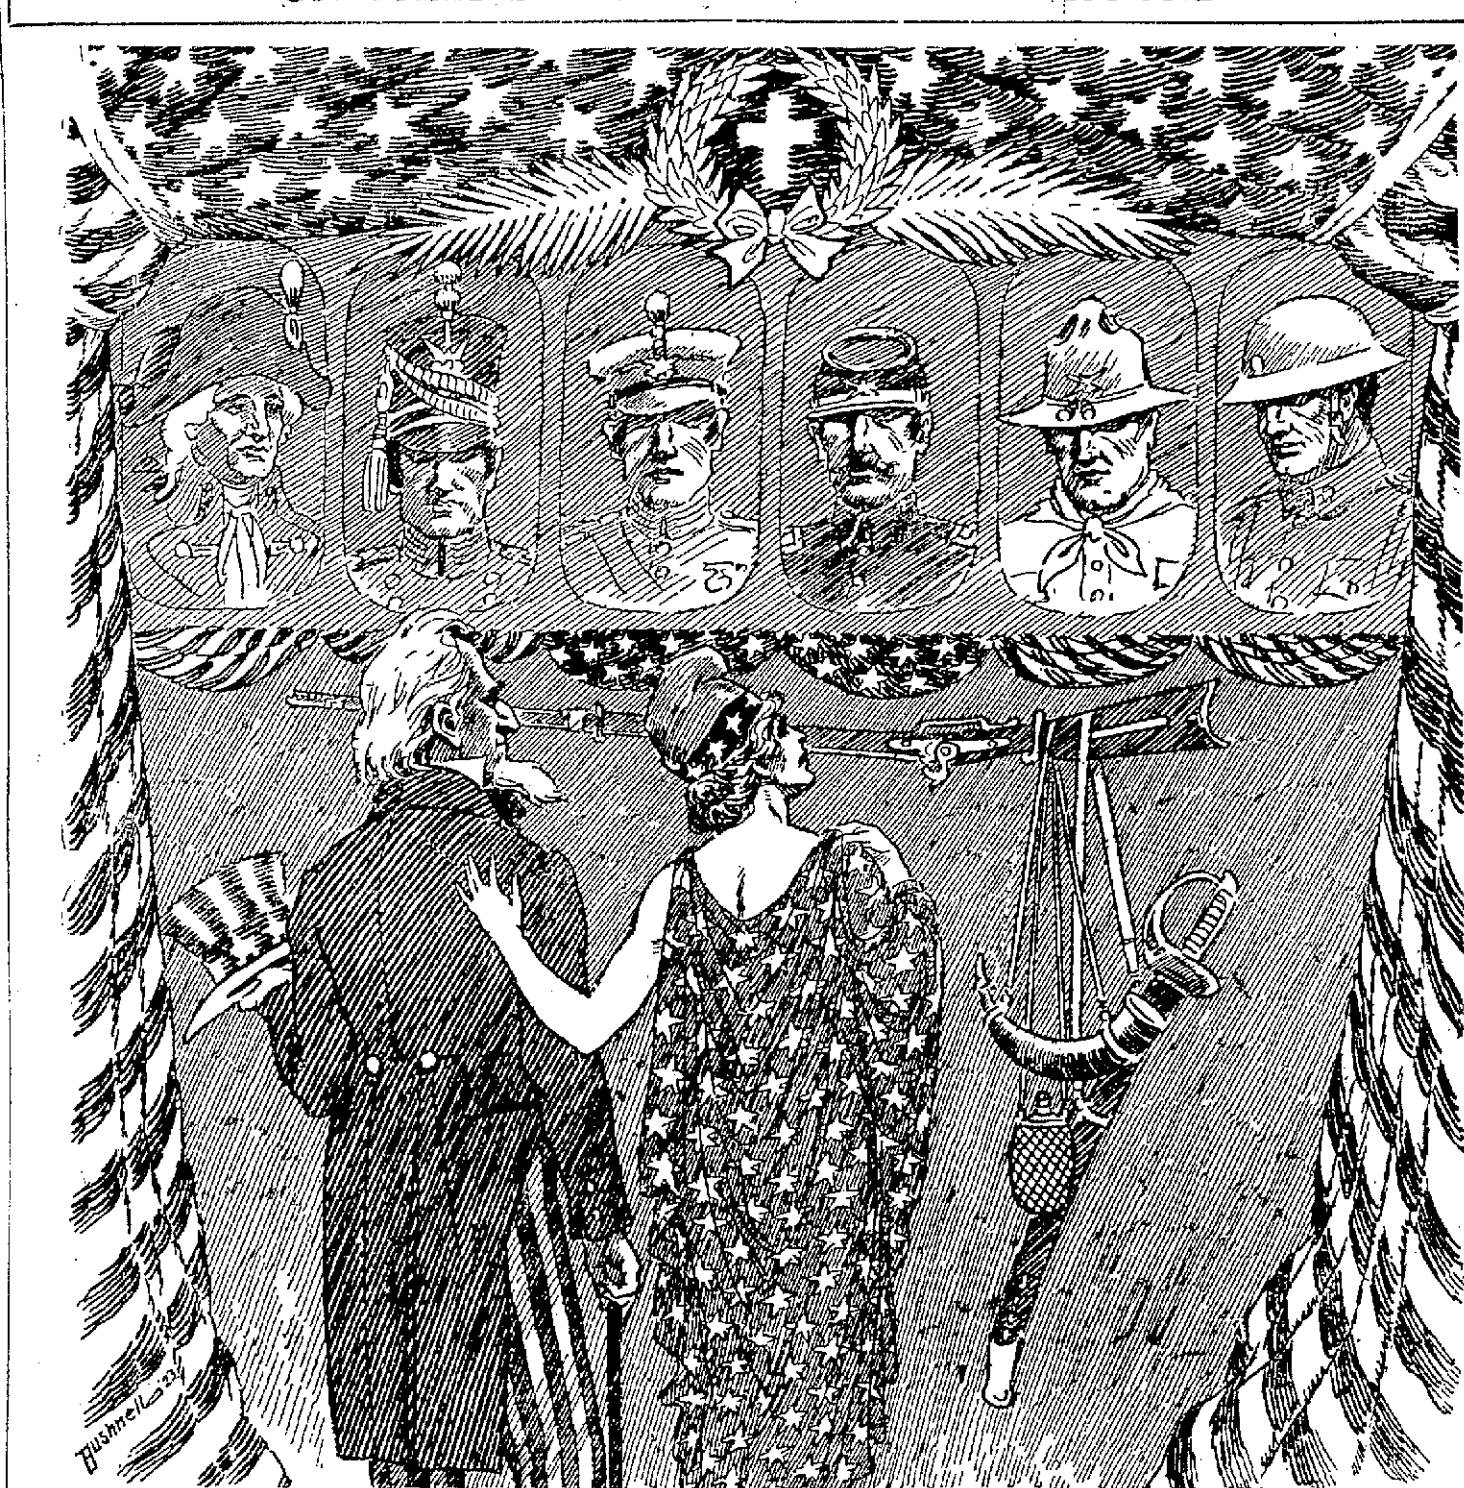

This measure, according to Senator La Follette, will leave the present state mill taxes in effect, leave undisturbed the personal property off-set to the income tax, but will readjust the income tax—less the readjustment of the income tax is said to exist in some instances.

The progressive republican leaders are attempting to bring their forces in line and say that when the vote is taken they will be able to command their full strength.

LEAVES OVERTURNED CANOE TO COMPANION; DROWNS IN ICY LAKE

Chicago.—Jesse A. Painter, 29, former student at Northwestern university, employed in the publicity department of the school, was drowned Tuesday afternoon, and Jan. Ruse, his companion, narrowly escaped death when a canoe in which they were paddling capsized in the lake about 300 yards off shore near the Swift engineering hall on the university campus in Evanston.

Painter is believed to have been seized with cramps as he was swimming to shore, leaving Ruse clinging to the overturned canoe. Near that the trail craft would not support the weight of both; he believed to have caused the former student to risk his life in the swim to land.

Many joined the parade, either on foot or in motors, and many others were on the downtown streets to hear the music of the Dower City band, which got away shortly after nine o'clock. PENALIZE FALSE FUND STATEMENTS

Cheese Factories and Creameries Warned by State Department.

[By Associated Press.] Madison.—The state department of agriculture has issued a general order penalizing cheese factories and creameries which issue false financial statements to farmers.

The order provides that "no person engaged in the business of manufacturing cheese or butter shall render to patrons who deliver milk or cream to such manufacturer, any statement or accounting which contains false or misleading computation or arrangement of figures, with the intent to induce such patrons, or patrons of a competitor of said manufacturer, to believe that such manufacturer is paying a higher price for milk, cream, or whey cream, or butterfat, than said manufacturer is in fact paying or remitting."

Unfair Competition. The department takes the position that the issuance of fraudulent statements constitutes unfair competition against competitors who give a true accounting and do not endeavor to misrepresent the price which they pay or remit.

The order was issued after a hearing based upon the petition by representatives of dairy interests in the state, who alleged that some cheese-makers and creamery operators deliberately falsified their returns to farmer patrons.

Penalty Is Heavy. This was done, they said, in order to appear to be offering better terms than competing manufacturers in the locality, with the purpose and effect of holding their own patrons by such inequitable means and of causing dissatisfaction and disruption among competitor patrons.

The order carries the usual heavy penalty for violation of orders under the unfair competition section of the marketing law, with a maximum of $5,000 fine and one year imprisonment, or revocation of corporate rights.

FAVOR PICRIC ACID ON WISCONSIN FARMS

Ninety cents worth of materials and a few minutes of work is all it took to blow up a rock which had cost time, money and effort for three generations on a southern Wisconsin farm. And it made growers in this section of the state realize that explosives are not only for the well-developed sections of the state as in the northern cut-over lands.

"Enormous amounts of land lie idle in our richest soil," says John Sveinheart of the staff of the Wisconsin college of agriculture. "These areas stand as dead loads."

But the residue of central and southern Wisconsin are fast learning that explosives are not only for the new stump lands. Over 200,000 pounds of picric acid, a war explosive distributed by the government to farms, have already been shipped to the well-developed agricultural sections of the state. There are only two or three of all the Wisconsin counties which have not made use of this salvaged explosive.

Salvaged From War. The history of picric acid is an interesting one. At first it was proposed to dump millions of pounds of this war explosive into the ocean, before its value for land clearing was shown.

The Wisconsin college of agriculture was the first to try to use TNT as a farm explosive. They found it effective. By vigorous demands they succeeded in preventing any further destruction of the material. After TNT, picric acid became the most easily accessible material for farm use.

It is distributed for the cost of packing and freight, which amounts to $10.95 per hundred in prepaid lots. There are no profits in this cost. It is a saving of 50 per cent, as picric acid is more powerful than dynamite, and one cup per pound of explosive is included with all orders.

"Over one million and a quarter pounds have been ordered to date," says Mr. Sveinheart, "and orders are still coming in. This amounts to about 65 million cartridges."

"The largest amount has gone to the northern counties. Clark county leads with a total of 115,000 pounds, and is followed by Bayfield, Marathon, Douglas and Polk counties with large quantities."

MILION SEE MOVIES. During the first year of operation the Motion Picture Division of the American Farm Bureau Federation showed Farm Bureau films to 650,000 people at 5,150 meetings in 25 states. This was revealed at the first annual meeting of Homestead Films, Inc., which was held in the offices of the American Farm Bureau Federation on May 19. Officers of the farmers' film company were re-elected as follows: President, D. B. Thompson; Vice President, C. L. Bernard; Secretary, E. L. Hill. Mr. Thompson will continue to serve as director of the Motion Picture Division of the Department of Information of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The Farm Bureau motion picture library now contains a total of 35 photoplays.

SAVING $5 PER COW. "Teas watermelon growers will not have to pay $5 per cow for staking stock cars to carry melons to northern markets this year, thanks to the activities of the Transportation Department of the American Farm Bureau Federation."

Transportation Department is working now to secure removal of this charge for growers in other states.

MARKETING HOGS

(By JOE HAGA.)

On April 13, 1923, W. A. Harmon, Mayview, Mo., marketed 83 hogs averaging 220 pounds on the Kansas City market. The load brought the top price paid, which was $8.25. They were Duroc Jerseys of his own raising and about seven months old. There is nothing unusual in this statement, but the story of the sale presents a good example of the value of pure bred hogs as mediums for marketing grain and pasture crops profitably and is worthy the consideration of farmers.

The 83 hogs were farrowed and raised by 10 sows and were seven months old when put on the market. The 10 sows produced a total of 18,200 pounds of pork in seven months, or 1,820 pounds per sow in that time. At the selling price $8.25 per cwt., the gross return from ten sows was $1,493.75, or $149.37 for each sow. A strict cost account of all expense was kept from the time the pigs were farrowed. 1215 bushels of corn were fed and charged against the hogs at 70 cents per bushel. Tankage costing $72.50 was used in the ration in addition to about 100 bushels of oats valued at $50.00. Worm expeller and vaccination charges added $55.50 to the cost of production. Including some minor items, the total cost amounted to $1072.70. No charge was made for labor. The production cost plus commission and freight deducted from the sale price left a net profit of $520.91. Each sow returned a profit of $52.09 in just seven months time.

In speaking of his carload of pigs, Mr. Harmon said:

"The pigs were sired by registered Duroc-Jersey boars and out of pure bred Duroc sows. The sows are not recorded, but are all eligible to register. Until we had time the sows and pigs were run in a clover field and fed corn twice a day. When weaned at eight weeks old the pigs were turned into eighteen acres of corn with cornmeal and wheat feed and we weather hit the corn about the same time and I estimated the field to make thirty bushels per acre, but the corn was light and not very good feed. The pigs seemed to eat the peas first and finish up on the corn. They fed themselves in this feed until February 15. Every two or three days they received some corn meal about every two weeks some worm remedy. They were given plenty of clean water to drink and came to the hog house to sleep. On February 15 they were moved to the feed lot. I then fed them all the corn they would eat and 25 pounds of whey per day. At the end of 30 days the tankage was increased to 30 pounds per day till marketed. I had good luck and never lost a pig. From the time they were weaned, last fall and winter was very dry and there was no grass to speak of, so I had to do it on dry feed."

The experience of Mr. Harmon emphasizes two important points that play a big part in economical pork production. First, the increased tonnage of pork per sow possible through the use of pure bred sows due to their prolificacy, early weaning qualities and early maturity. The second is the advantage of turning hogs into pasture and corn fields to harvest crops which minimizes labor expense and is conducive to the health among the hogs. It seems that farmers could well afford to purchase grade and scrub hogs with pure breeds.

self in his letter of advice to New York state. But the whole problem is simply and absolutely reducible to one question: Is Al Smith "wet" or "dry"? To put it another way: Will Al Smith give comfort to the "wets" or to the "drys"? The Mullin-Gage law is an incident in the larger canvas of the state's political life. Another state is obliged to agree with the federal congress in the latter's definition that one-half of one per cent of alcohol is "intoxicating." It isn't a matter of repelling the eighteenth amendment itself. That amendment is indeed too deeply to be repealed at this time. But the supreme court of the United States has indicated that congress can define the word "intoxicating" as used in the federal amendment. If Al Smith believed in the one-half of one per cent definition he would be in duty bound to keep the Mullin-Gage law on the books by vetoing the repeal act of the legislature.

But Al Smith defined his position on that matter in his letter to Simon Boss, senator-elect from Ohio. Al Smith believes the federal congress should interpret the constitution by fixing any alcoholic content it thinks is proper. Woodrow Wilson, the last democratic president of the United States, vetoed the Volstead act itself, and gave Al Smith a precedent which is of incalculable influence in the present situation. Woodrow Wilson, who respected the constitution as much as anybody in the democratic party and who in the literary field was known as an authority on constitutional government, declined to sign the Volstead act and did not feel that he was weakening the respect for the constitution.

So Al Smith, standard bearer for the moment of democracy in the popular mind, stands with his hand on his hip, the question of whether it is responsible for a state to disapprove of a definition which all act of congress makes and which the states are empowered concurrently to define. He can also brush aside if he likes the argument that to wipe the Mullin-Gage law off the books leaves chaos because it takes away police restriction on the sale of liquor. There are, for instance, no state laws requiring enforcement of the anti-drug act, nor is there a state law against counterfeiting, but the police officers of the state will arrest any flagrant violator of any law, federal or state, and of course turn the prisoner over to the federal or state authorities, as the case may be.

Keeping Silent. What then will be basic in the governor's mind when he reaches his conclusion? It will not be one-sided after the hearing is over on Friday. He refuses to say a word about his intentions for his is trying to keep an open mind until the end of the hearing. But all the things that will be said at the hearing can be dismissed as legal and academic. The answer will be politics pure and simple whether Governor Smith wants it that way or not. It will influence his mind and his decision. And here is the political situation as it affects Al Smith:

The prospective republican nominee, Warren Harding, is 100 per cent dry. Will the democratic party do the same or will it heed the upheaval in the popular states of the east where prohibition is the live political question in a generation? Al Smith has been impressed by the fact that the solid south's electoral vote plus the votes of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Delaware and Maryland would be about enough to elect a democratic president of the United States. Would the solid south's vote be so solid if it answered, would stick by a program of letting the states individually fix their own minimum alcoholic content, which is what Governor Smith said in his letter to Mr. Boss of Ohio. What chance have the democrats but to take advantage of it? This is the way the leaders of the Empire state democracy, including Al Smith, look at the national political situation.

As to the Presidency. Would Al Smith increase his chances of becoming the national standard-bearer on that program? If he has any chance at all it is on staying "wet." For if the democrats prefer to take the "dry" side of the dilemma, they would take another candidate who hasn't the "wet" record of Al Smith. Most every man wants to be president who has achieved the prominence that Al Smith has. He ends his political career if he keeps the Mullin-Gage law on the books. For Tammany will be divided and will desert him and he could neither depend on their support at the next national convention nor on the argument that he would surely carry New York state's electoral vote. If he isn't ambitious, he will veto the repeal. People of New York state who know Al Smith, and who know human nature too, expect him to stay "wet."

TO RESUME PAVING

HERE THIS WEEK

North First Street Job to be

Finished Up—Sewer Project Near Completion.

Paving operations on North First street probably will be resumed this week, the four-inch cement base now having had three weeks in which to cure. It is expected work will be commenced Thursday or Friday, laying a two-inch mixture of granite and asphalt over the concrete to form a pavement suitable for such a steep hill.

The job consists of two blocks,

from North Bluff street to North Wisconsin street.

City Engineer C. V. Kereh is awaiting completion of the last work on the Eastern avenue main outlet sewer, construction of which was begun two years ago the coming July.

The sewer itself, including several blocks at intersections, has been completed and is being cleaned out this week preparatory to final inspection and acceptance by the city.

The contractor, the Milwaukee

Construction company, still has a connection to make with the Chevrolet sewer on Industrial avenue, and the surface of Eastern avenue which has been torn up for so long must be put back in its former condition.

The engineering department of the city is still busy with the topographical survey of Idaville park.

CHEVROLET PAINTS

TOURIST CAMP AND

ERECTS NEW SIGNS

Paint brush welders from the Chevrolet Motor company painted the benches, the car and the large shelter shed at the tourist camp on North Washington street in grey.

Following the offer of A. F. Young, sales manager, made before the Milwaukee club. The Chevrolet has erected several groups of their blue and white signs "Chevrolet for Economic Transportation" which stand out in prominence in the beautiful park. No electric sign or other signs have been erected.

Three Days Left

of Clean-Up Week

Workers on the city clean-up drive, being held all this week, took a day's rest Wednesday along with the city in general, so that but three days remain to complete the task of making the city spotless. The workers report good cooperation from the townspeople, and say the requirements are being generally lived up to. The main one is that all rubbish —boxes and leaves are not classed as such—must be piled in receptacles of some kind and placed on the curb if people wish removed free by the city. The residence district already shows the result of two days of hauling rubbish, and by Saturday night

it is hoped that Janesville can boast of being the cleanest city in the state.

CAR IS ABANDONED

AFTER BARN DANCE

Report was made to the police station, Wednesday morning, by John

Waldman that a Dodge car bearing an Illinois license had been abandoned at his farm, following a barn dance there, Tuesday night. The police notified Sheriff Fred Deley.

NO SHOP MEETING

DUE TO HOLIDAY

As the Chevrolet plant was closed

all day Wednesday, no noon shop meeting was held. The N. C. C.

nesday, securing a minister or business man to give a talk, and furnishing musical features. There will be no shop held this week. The Y. M.

meets on Wednesday afternoons has also been called off this week. This

DR. GRAVES VISITS OLD FRIENDS HERE

Founder of Tooth Powder Concern Practiced in Janesville 15 Years.

Visiting this city at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. W. H. Graves, 318 Linn street, brings back old memories of his dentistry experience here 15 years ago. Dr. Graves, now manufacturer of the famous tooth powder which bears his name. He is here because of his health, recovering from a stroke of paralysis suffered a few weeks ago. He is 72. Mr. Graves was born in the town of Fulton, Ill. His grandfather was a government scout under Washington and followed him in the military service by running away at the age of 16 and enlisting in the Civil war, entering Company C of the Eighth regiment. His various travels and a gun he had kept for three years he was a sharpshooter having many exciting adventures and narrow escapes. Often, he says, he would be in the woods alone at night, 20 or 30 miles. During his three years more than once he had his cap shot off and had shots all through his clothing. Only once was he wounded, and that was when he was shot in the loss of hearing in his right ear. He was in some shrubs, picking off the rebels here and there, when a large shot was fired close to him. He was thrown 30 feet. This injured only his hearing, however, and he was soon in the thick of battle again.

In West Point 3 Years
Following the war, in which he remained to the end, he returned to Janesville and received some education. He did not, however, go to school, however, because he had no previous education, and had to go with young children. He ran away, this time to the West, where he was shipped on a schooner for some years. Finally landing in New York, he joined the engineer corps and went to West Point, where he took up engineering. Here, too, he was honored for his sharpshooting. He was an assistant surgeon there because of the training he had had along that line. He was at West Point for three years, where he had a desire to become a dentist and after some effort, located with Dr. Fitch, then one of the most noted dentists of New York.

First Powder in 1882
He was in this office for eight months, after which he returned to Janesville. In 1882 he started a practice here in the old hotel block, over Will Sherr's drug store. It was during this period that he formulated the idea about the tooth powder which has since made him famous. During his stay here, he made frequent trips to see Dr. Lyons, whose tooth-cleaning preparation is still one of the standards of the country and after much experimenting with chalks and other material, put his first powder on the market in 1882. Since then it has been a good seller.

A few years after this, Dr. Graves moved with his wife to Chicago, where he kept up his practice as a dentist and at the same time manufactured his powder. Since then, however, he has sold his patent on it, and it is now being made by a well-known concern there. Dr. Graves, however, keeps his practice yet in School street, Chicago.

He has spent the past few days calling on friends and dentists here and expects to return to Chicago Tuesday.

"Am I Interesting?"
The 1923 class play brought another capacity house and the comedy was up-to-date in every particular. Supt. Chas. Jahn knew his people well when he wrote the play. The 23 members who have developed historical cleverness in their four years of high school work. The audience enjoyed the novelty for there was neither hesitancy on the part of the players, nor a dull moment in the rendition. All moved with promptness and spirit, only experienced actors would have known them to be actors. There never was a more determined villain than Alvin Mayo, nor kinder father than Clifford Wiswell. Harold Dunlap, Walter Riedel, and Kenneth Carroll were superb in their roles. The play was a success in every particular.

Just as sentiment required and Kenneth Morrissey, as leading man, deceived everybody until he untangled the plot and appeared in his own suit of clothes. There could not have been a better, more "petite" French maid than Helen Coulson and Ruth Watt and Ruth Weaver made good balance wheels for the play. JACK-IN-PULPIT
29 INCHES HIGH
FOUND NEAR CITY

A freak of nature, an unusually large sized Jack-in-the-pulpit plant was found Sunday near Crystal Springs by Dr. R. J. Hart. Towering above its many wild cat sisters the plant arrested the attention of Dr. Hart who dug it up by the roots and brought it to town. From the base of the stem to the tip of the flower the plant measures 22 inches, the leaves growing several inches higher. The plant is so unusual that Dr. Hart sent it to his daughter, Miss Helen Hart, who is taking a post graduate course at the University of Minnesota. She is majoring in science and can probably use the plant in the laboratory.

Figure 1 consists of two line graphs. The top graph, labeled 'Control', shows the growth of E. coli O157:H7 over 10 hours at 100% relative humidity. The y-axis is 'log CFU' ranging from 0 to 10, and the x-axis is 'Time (h)' ranging from 0 to 10. The data points show a steady linear increase from approximately 2.5 log CFU at 0 hours to 10 log CFU at 10 hours. The bottom graph, labeled '100% RH', shows the growth of the same bacterium under the same conditions but with 100% relative humidity. The y-axis is 'log CFU' ranging from 0 to 10, and the x-axis is 'Time (h)' ranging from 0 to 10. The data points show a much slower increase, reaching only about 1.5 log CFU at 10 hours.

AT LAST A GREAT SWEEPING SALE OF OUR ENTIRE STOCK

T.P. Burns Co. Loaded to the Guards With Goods--Swamp

THE TIME HAS COME

You're about to read of the greatest decision the owners of this store ever made.

It's a decision without precedent—it's a decision which has taken all our courage. The newspapers have been pretty well filled up of late with ads of Spring clearances, of retailers' odd lots and factory disposals of lots of merchandise that is hard to sell.

There is a sale that is not a Spring clearance, that is not a distribution of a bargain lot, that is not an overstock of new factory with an over-production of unpopular styles, but a sale that is a sweeping reduction of our entire stock—two floors and a stock room.

A sale that provides opportunity for thousands and thousands of customers to buy the seasonable merchandise that has been their favorite brands for years at virtually away less than the ruling market prices. A sale that includes all merchandise recognized in fashion and good sense. A sale that is almost an asset to this city. In fact, it's a $100,000.00 sale of the very best in America. It includes our entire stock.

Signed,

T. P. BURNS CO.

Girl of Ghost Mountain

By J. ALLAN DUNN

Author of "A Man to His Mate," "Rimrock Trail," "The Man Trap."

Copyright by Small, Maynard and Company, and published by arrangement with McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Mary Larrows, with a ghostly smile, looked up at the top of Ghost Mountain in Arizona. Peter Sheridan, New York lawyer, with a mischievous grin, looked down at her. They were in the canyon of the Colorado, where the ghostly figure of a man in a white robe, with a sword in his hand, had been seen by many. Mary was a girl of twenty, and Peter was a man of thirty. They had been married for a year, and they were now on a honeymoon. Mary was a girl of great beauty, and Peter was a man of great wealth. They had been married in the city, and they were now in the canyon. Mary was a girl of great beauty, and Peter was a man of great wealth. They had been married in the city, and they were now in the canyon.

"Twisted up in a pothole. Tryin' to get to the hayrack. I reckon. I spotted two buzzards as we rode in. They'd picked an' was squawkin' on a rock above him. That's what give me my tip about lookin' for a buzzard. I told you that, didn't I? Well, now that I was wishful to be his section, but if anything should ever break, it might be as well to be able to show there ain't no buzzards or other words on him. Sabe? So I stayed off the coyotes an' buzzards. Saved their lives, mebbe. I mean, I don't want to be a healthy megalomaniac, even for them."

Sheridan walked back thoughtfully. His mind was slowly, the intense desire to kill that he had not dreamed himself capable of possessing. "I've found him," he answered the girl's mute question. "The score is settled. We'll eat and get out of this place."

"Food and water had done wonders for the mare. Her limp, after cold applications, was much less pronounced. She was finally able to bear the girl's light weight."

Red, cinching up the horse he was to ride, watched Sheridan as he set Mary Sheridan in the saddle. There was a humorous twinkle to his eyes, a quick to his mouth.

"She's leadin' him into the home, 'convinced' he can't hurt a hair of his tail to the mount. An' he's followin' close an' willin'. Hawsie, you was too good a piece of flesh to let get mixed up with that Holister. I told you that, didn't I? Well, now that I was wishful to be his section, but if anything should ever break, it might be as well to be able to show there ain't no buzzards or other words on him. Sabe? So I stayed off the coyotes an' buzzards. Saved their lives, mebbe. I mean, I don't want to be a healthy megalomaniac, even for them."

TODAY'S RECIPES
Chops and Potatoes—Butter a baking dish, pare potatoes and slice thin, put in dish layer of potatoes, layer of butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper, then another of potatoes. Repeat until dish is nearly full. Then nearly cover with milk. Place pieces of pork chops on top of potatoes and bake as usual.
Asparagus Favorites—Cook tips of asparagus in small amount of water. Add milk, lump butter, salt and pepper. Thicken with flour, moisten with water. Have four hard-boiled eggs sliced into dish, pour asparagus over eggs, with spoon give it one stir, then serve.
Blackberry Whip—One and one-half cups blackberry juice (strained), three tablespoons gelatin, two egg whites, one-quarter cup sugar, one-half cup seedless raisins. Beat the blackberry juice with the sugar, cook the gelatin for five minutes in just enough cold water to cover, and then dissolve by pouring the hot juice over it. When it has cooled and begins to get thick beat rapidly and pour into the beaten white of eggs. Then add raisins, fill sherbet glasses with mixture, chill. When ready to serve, top each glass with whipped cream.

Additional Suggestions—With the cottage cheese in the dinner use cream, salt and pepper and serve with apple butter.
To serve the strawberries for breakfast is to wash but not hull them and serve with powdered sugar. Put a little mound of the sugar on each plate and the strawberries, held by the stem and dipped in the sugar make a most appetizing "starter" for the breakfast.

82 Years Old and As Good as a Youngster

"7 or 8 years ago I was a very sick man. Doctors said catarrh trouble stomach and bowels, affecting the liver and heart. For more than a year I wanted to die, but could not. Upon the advice of a friend I tried May's Wonderful Remedy, and although 82 years old I now feel as good as a youngster." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrh mucus from the intestinal tract and allows the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. People's Drug Co., and druggists everywhere. —Advertisement.

Expect Many Bids at County Sale of $200,000 Bonds

The finance committee of the county board will hold a session at the court house at 2 p. m. Thursday, when bids for the sale of the $200,000 worth of concrete highway bonds ordered by the county board at its last session will be opened. It is expected that a large number of bids will be offered as scores of inquiries have been received by the county clerk, who has filled out the blanks in which information was requested. The county board will meet next Thursday to legalize the sale. It was considered necessary to sell more bonds to forestall any possibility of holding up county construction on account of lack of funds.
